3. Purpose and legal basis on which we process personal data

3.1 Call XING profil

For the information service offered here, we use the technical platform and services of New Work SE, Am Strandkai 1, 20457 Hamburg. For this purpose, we have entered into an agreement with the provider regarding the processing of your data, which forms the basis of the contractual rights of use by us.

We would like to point out that you use our XING site and its functions on your own responsibility. This applies in particular to the use of the interactive functions (e.g. networking, sharing, rating). Alternatively, you can also access the information offered via this page on our website at <https://www.leukhardt.de>.

When you use XING and are on the platform, XING will collect and use personal information such as your IP address as well as other information that is also available in the form of cookies on your PC. This information is also used to provide us, as the operator of our company page on XING, with statistical information about the use of our presence. The contents of these evaluations are exclusively anonymous. Under no circumstances can we establish a connection to your person.

The data collected about you in this context will be processed by New Work SE and, if necessary, transferred to countries outside the European Union. What information New Work SE receives and how it is used is described in general terms by the provider in its privacy policy. There you will also find information on how to contact New Work SE and on the settings options in your own profile. The privacy policy is available at the following link:

In what way New Work SE uses the data from a visit to our company page on XING for its own purposes, to what extent activities on the page are assigned to individual users, how long New Work

SE stores this data and whether data from a visit to our company page is passed on to third parties, is not conclusively and clearly stated by New Work SE. We have no knowledge about this.

If you are currently logged in to XING as a user, a cookie with your XING ID is stored on your end device. This enables New Work SE to track that you have visited this page and how you have used it. This also applies to all other XING pages. Via XING buttons embedded in websites, it may be possible for New Work SE to record your visits to these websites and assign them to your XING profile. If you wish to avoid this, you should log out of XING or deactivate the "stay logged in" function, delete the cookies present on your device and close your browser and then restart it. In this way, XING information by which you can be directly identified will be deleted. This allows you to use our XING site without revealing your XING identifier. When you access interactive features of the site (networking, commenting, sharing, news, etc.), a XING login screen will appear. After any login, you will again be recognizable to XING as a specific user.

For information on how to manage or delete information about you, see the following support pages:

<https://privacy.xing.com/en/your-privacy>

We, as the provider of the information service, do not collect and process any data from your use of our service beyond this.

The legal basis for processing your data is our legitimate interest according to Art. 6 para.1 lit.f GDPR. The purpose is the provision of information and public relations.

You can find the current version of this data protection declaration under the item "Data protection" on our XING company page and on the privacy page of our website
